Announcement:
Bombay Natural History Society (BNHS) requires Researchers

The Bombay Natural History Society (BNHS) a 130 years old premier scientific research organization engaged in conservation of nature, research in natural history and wildlife would like to recruit Research Fellows for its following projects sponsored by the Government of India, Ministry of Environment & forests (1) Bengal Florican Project: (Studying movement pattern and dispersal of the Bengal Florican Houbaropsis bengalenesis: a Satellite Telemetry Pilot Project) and (2) Jerdon’s Courser Project (State-of-art technology to study nocturnal and extremely elusive Jerdon’s Courser Rhinoptilus bitorquatus and its habitats).

Brief Job Requirement: The candidates for the Bengal Florican Project will have to carry out field research work in Uttar Pradesh, Assam and Arunachal Pradesh and for Jerdon’s Courser Project the candidates will have to carry out fieldwork on species Jerdon’s Courser near Cudappah, in Andhra Pradesh.

Desired Educational qualifications: The candidates should be M.Sc. in Wildlife Biology/Zoology with first class and will be encouraged to enroll for Ph.D. Should have the knowledge of computer programmes. Age: Below 30 years, Salary: negotiable.

Interested candidates may send their applications within 15 days along with their updated C.V. to the Director, Bombay Natural History Society, Hornbill House, Shaheed Bhagat Singh Road, Opp. Lion Gate, Mumbai – 400001 or by email to: rahmani.asad@gmail.com

References:

Announcement:
Bombay Natural History Society (BNHS) requires Researchers

The Bombay Natural History Society (BNHS) a 130 years old premier scientific research organization engaged in conservation of nature, research in natural history and wildlife would like to recruit Research Fellows for its following projects sponsored by the Government of India, Ministry of Environment & forests (1) Bengal Florican Project: (Studying movement pattern and dispersal of the Bengal Florican Houbaropsis bengalenesis: a Satellite Telemetry Pilot Project) and (2) Jerdon’s Courser Project (State-of-art technology to study nocturnal and extremely elusive Jerdon’s Courser Rhinoptilus bitorquatus and its habitats).

Brief Job Requirement: The candidates for the Bengal Florican Project will have to carry out field research work in Uttar Pradesh, Assam and Arunachal Pradesh and for Jerdon’s Courser Project the candidates will have to carry out fieldwork on species Jerdon’s Courser near Cudappah, in Andhra Pradesh.

Desired Educational qualifications: The candidates should be M.Sc. in Wildlife Biology/Zoology with first class and will be encouraged to enroll for Ph.D. Should have the knowledge of computer programmes. Age: Below 30 years, Salary: negotiable.

Interested candidates may send their applications within 15 days along with their updated C.V. to the Director, Bombay Natural History Society, Hornbill House, Shaheed Bhagat Singh Road, Opp. Lion Gate, Mumbai – 400001 or by email to: rahmani.asad@gmail.com